35. The present report was adopted by the Governing Council at its 8th plenary meeting, on 9 May 2003.

II. PROVISIONAL AGENDA AND OTHER ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE TWENTIETH SESSION OF THE GOVERNING COUNCIL

A. Introduction

36. The Governing Council considered agenda item 12 at its 8th plenary meeting, on 9 May 2003. It had before it a proposal by the Bureau on the provisional agenda and other arrangements for the twentieth session of the Governing Council (HSP/GC/19/L.3).

B. Discussion

37. A number of delegations expressed concern that the next session of the Governing Council should not conflict with either the next session of the UNEP Governing Council or that of the Commission on Sustainable Development, noting that the timely delivery of pre-session documents for past sessions of the Commission on Human Settlements had been negatively affected by scheduling conflicts.

38. Several delegations expressed a similar concern with respect to meetings of the World Urban Forum, suggesting that the two bodies should not meet in the same year. A clear distinction needed to be drawn between their meetings, with those of the Governing Council being seen as forums for “governing and decision-making” and those of the World Urban Forum as a venue for dialogues and the exchange of new ideas and possible solutions.

39. With respect to the agenda for the twentieth session of the Governing Council, it was agreed that a new item 6 would be added, entitled: Implementing and monitoring the goal of the United Nations Millennium Declaration<sup>3</sup> on improving the lives of slum dwellers.

C. Action taken by the Governing Council

40. At its 8th plenary meeting, on 9 May 2003, the Governing Council decided that its twentieth session would be held from 11 to 15 April 2005 at the headquarters of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT) in Nairobi. At the same meeting, the Governing Council decided to adopt the following provisional agenda for its twentieth session:

1. Election of officers.
2. Credentials.
3. Adoption of the agenda and organization of work.
4. Activities of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, UN-HABITAT: progress report of the Executive Director.
5. Special themes:
  - (a) Involvement of civil society in improving local governance;
  - (b) Post-conflict, natural and man-made disasters assessment and reconstruction.
6. Implementing and monitoring the goal of the United Nations Millennium Declaration on improving the lives of slum dwellers.
7. Recommendations on decentralization and the strengthening of local authorities.
8. Strengthening the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation.
9. Work programme of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, UN-HABITAT, for the biennium 2006-2007 and budget of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation for the biennium 2006-2007.
10. Coordination matters:
  - (a) Cooperation between the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, UN-HABITAT, and the United Nations Environment Programme;
  - (b) Cooperation with agencies and organizations within the United Nations system, intergovernmental organizations outside the United Nations system and non-governmental organizations;
  - (c) Matters arising out of the resolutions of major legislative organs of the United Nations and other intergovernmental bodies which are brought to the attention of the Governing Council.
11. Themes for the twenty-first and future sessions of the Governing Council.
12. Other matters.
13. Provisional agenda and other arrangements for the twenty-first session of the Governing Council.
14. Adoption of the report of the session.
15. Closure of the session.

III. CLOSURE OF THE SESSION

41. In her closing remarks, the Executive Director stated her view that the session had been extremely successful and that the decisions taken by the Governing Council would enable UN-HABITAT to fulfil its mandate as a fully-fledged programme of the United Nations. She noted in particular that the session, which had been characterized by intensive but constructive debates and negotiations, had been well attended by both member States and Habitat Agenda partners from local government, non-governmental organizations and the private sector.

42. She was encouraged by the Governing Council's support for UN-HABITAT's work programme and budget, which had been designed to refocus UN-HABITAT on the Millennium Development Goals,<sup>4</sup> and in particular those relating to slum upgrading and improving the lives of slum dwellers. She also welcomed the Governing Council's endorsement of the UN-HABITAT strategic vision, including the Global Campaign for Secure Tenure, the Global Campaign on Urban Governance and its technical cooperation and operational activities.

43. In the critical area of financing, she said that UN-HABITAT would continue to explore and build partnerships with financial institutions, the private sector and other partners to develop financial mechanisms to strengthen UN-HABITAT and the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation. UN-HABITAT would also strive to mobilize resources to increase the supply of affordable credit for slum upgrading and other human settlements development. She hoped therefore to be able to report on positive developments at the Governing Council's next session.

44. After expressing her appreciation to the President and other Bureau members, the Government of Kenya and the Committee of Permanent Representatives, she pledged the continued efforts of the secretariat towards the implementation of the Governing Council's resolutions and expressed her belief that, working together, all concerned could build a world in which everyone could live a life of dignity, good health, safety, happiness and hope.

45. After the customary exchange of courtesies, the President of the Governing Council declared the nineteenth session of the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme closed at 1.35 p.m. on Friday, 9 May 2003.

Voting rights

Rule 50

Each member of the Governing Council shall have one vote.

Majority required

Rule 51

1. Decisions of the Governing Council taken by vote shall be made by a majority of the members present and voting. If a vote is equally divided on a matter other than an election, the proposal or amendment shall be considered rejected.
2. For the purposes of these rules, the phrase “members present and voting” refers only to members casting affirmative or negative votes and does not include members abstaining from voting.

Method of voting

Rule 52

1. Except as provided in paragraph 2 of this rule and rule 58, the Governing Council shall normally vote by show of hands; any member of the Governing Council, may, however, request a roll call, which shall then be taken in the English alphabetical order of the names of members of the Governing Council, beginning with the member whose name is drawn by the President. 2. When the Governing Council votes by mechanical means, a non-recorded vote shall replace a vote by show of hands and a recorded vote shall replace a roll call. If the motion for division is carried, those parts of the proposal or of the amendment which are approved shall then be put to the vote as a whole. If all operative parts of the proposal or of the amendment have been rejected, the proposal or the amendment shall be considered to have been rejected as a whole.

Decisions on amendments

Rule 56

1. An amendment is a proposal that does no more than add to, delete from or revise part of another proposal.
2. When an amendment is moved to a proposal, the amendment shall be voted on first. When two or more amendments are moved to a proposal, the amendment furthest removed in substance from the original proposal shall be voted on first and then the amendment next furthest removed therefrom, and so on until all the amendments have been put to the vote. Where, however, the adoption of one amendment necessarily implies the rejection of another amendment, the latter shall not be put to the vote. If one or more amendments are adopted, the amended proposal shall then be put to the vote.

Order of decisions on proposals

Rule 57

1. If two or more proposals, other than amendments, relate to the same question, they shall be decided on in the order in which they were submitted, unless the Governing Council decides otherwise. The Governing Council may, after a decision on one proposal, decide whether or not to go on to consider the next proposal.
2. A motion requiring that no decision be taken on the substance of a proposal shall be decided on first before that proposal.

Elections

Rule 58

All elections shall be held by secret ballot unless there is an agreed candidate or slate of candidates and the Governing Council decides to proceed without taking a ballot.

Rule 59

1. When two or more elective places are to be filled at one time under the same conditions, those candidates, in a number not exceeding the number of such places, obtaining in the first ballot the majority required and the largest number of votes shall be elected.
2. If the number of candidates obtaining such a majority is less than the number of places to be filled, additional ballots shall be held to fill the remaining places, provided that if only one place remains to be filled the procedures in rule 60 shall be applied. The ballot shall be restricted to the unsuccessful candidates having obtained the largest number of votes in the previous ballot, but not exceeding twice the number of places remaining to be filled. However, in the case of a tie between a greater number of unsuccessful candidates, a special ballot shall be held for the purpose of reducing the number of candidates to the required number: if a tie again results among more than the required number of candidates, the President shall reduce their number to that required by drawing lots.
3. When a restricted ballot (not counting a special ballot held under the conditions specified in the last sentence of paragraph 2 above) is inconclusive, the President shall decide among the remaining candidates by drawing lots.

Rule 60

1. If, when only one elective place is to be filled, no candidate obtains in the first ballot the majority required, a second ballot shall be taken, confined to the two candidates having obtained the largest number of votes. If in the second ballot the votes are equally divided, the President shall decide between the candidates by drawing lots.
2. In the case of a tie in the first ballot among the candidates obtaining the second largest number of votes, a special ballot shall be held among such candidates for the purpose of reducing their number to two; similarly, in the case of a tie among three or more candidates obtaining the largest number of votes, a special ballot shall be held. If a tie again results in the special ballot, the President shall eliminate one candidate by drawing lots, and thereafter another ballot shall be taken among all the remaining candidates. The procedure prescribed by these rules shall, if necessary, be repeated until one candidate is duly elected.

Rule 67

Written statements submitted by the designated representatives referred to in rules 61 to 66 shall be distributed by the secretariat to all delegations in the quantities and in the language in which the statements are made available to it, provided that statements submitted by the designated representatives referred to in rules 64 to 66 are related to the work of the Governing Council and are on a subject in which they have a special competence.

XII. SUSPENSION, AMENDMENT AND SUPPLEMENTATION OF THE RULES OF PROCEDURE

19/2. Work programme and budget of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme for the biennium 2004-2005

The Governing Council,

Recalling the Istanbul Declaration on Human Settlements,<sup>5</sup> the Habitat Agenda<sup>2</sup> and General Assembly resolution 51/177 of 16 December 1996, whereby the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT) was designated as a focal point, within the United Nations system, for the implementation of the Habitat Agenda, and also the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium,<sup>6</sup> which identified gaps in and obstacles to the implementation of the Habitat Agenda and proposed actions for overcoming them,

Recalling also the commitments made by Governments in the United Nations Millennium Declaration<sup>3</sup> and at the World Summit on Sustainable Development, Johannesburg, South Africa, 26 August-4 September 2002, to reduce by half the proportion of people without sustainable access to safe drinking water and basic sanitation by the year 2015 and to achieve significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum dwellers by the year 2020,

Taking into account the emphasis placed in the Declaration on Cities and other Human Settlements in the New Millennium and also in resolution 18/6 of 16 February 2001 of the Commission on Human Settlements on monitoring, evaluation and dissemination of information on best practices in the implementation of the Habitat Agenda,

Bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 56/205 of 21 December 2001, in which the General Assembly urged the Executive Director of UN-HABITAT to provide advisory services and improved technical cooperation activities in the area of human settlement development to Governments,

Bearing in mind also General Assembly resolution 56/206 of 21 December 2001, in which the General Assembly called for the strengthening of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation, with the active participation and collaboration of organizations within and outside the United Nations system,

Welcoming the significant progress made in implementing the new strategic vision for a revitalized UN-HABITAT, in accordance with resolution 17/7 of 14 May 1999 of the Commission on Human Settlements, and in the revitalization of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation, including the improvement of the administrative and financial management of UN-HABITAT and the regularization of staff positions,

Noting with satisfaction the reorganization of the work programme of UN-HABITAT into four subprogrammes, including the integration of work on the twin goals of adequate shelter for all and sustainable human settlements development into a single subprogramme and the establishment of separate subprogrammes on monitoring the Habitat Agenda, regional and technical cooperation and human settlements financing, in the revised medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005, and the related realignment of the programme structure and the organizational structure in line with Office of Internal Oversight Services recommendations,<sup>7</sup>

Expressing concern about the relatively low level of non-earmarked contributions, leading to the continuing and growing imbalance between earmarked and non-earmarked contributions, and about the fact that the donor base for non-earmarked contributions to the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation remains very small, with only seven main donors providing 85 per cent of the contributions in 2002,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 57/275 of 20 December 2002, which invites Governments that are in a position to do so, and their Habitat Agenda partners, to increase their financial contributions to the Foundation in a predictable manner,

Welcoming the interaction between the secretariat and member Governments, through the Committee of Permanent Representatives, during the implementation of the work programme for the biennium 2002-2003 and the preparation of the work programme and budget for the biennium 2004-2005,

Noting the report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions on the proposed budget of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation for the biennium 2004-2005,

1. Approves the draft work programme for the 2004-2005 biennium as contained in the draft work programme of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme for the biennium 2004-2005 (HSP/GC/19/8) as amended by document HSP/19/8 Add. 1 and subsequent amendments approved by the Governing Council;<sup>8</sup>
2. Approves a budget of $44, 412, 900 for the biennium 2004-2005 as contained in document HSP/GC/19/9/Add.3;
3. Endorses the budget targets detailed by the Executive Director in document HSP/GC/19/9 and authorizes her, subject to availability of resources and in consultation with the Committee of Permanent Representatives, to make commitments above the level of $44, 412,900 and up to $50,520,500;
4. Requests the Executive Director to submit to the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions the revised work programme and budget documents as approved by the Governing Council and keep the Committee of Permanent Representatives informed of the response of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions;
5. Approves an increase in the general purpose statutory reserve from $1,002,663 to $2,419,100 for the 2004-2005 biennium;
6. Urges Governments that are in a position to do so, and their Habitat Agenda<sup>2</sup> partners, to increase their financial contributions to the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation and invites all Governments and other donors to pledge and make their contributions to the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation at the earliest possible date in order to enable UN-HABITAT to plan its activities more effectively, with contributions preferably being made on the basis of multi-year non-earmarked pledges and/or multi-year partnership programmes;
7. Requests the Executive Director, while preparing the chapter on Human Settlements of the Medium-Term Plan of the United Nations, for the period 2006-2009, to consult the Committee of Permanent Representatives as early as possible and to take full account of their views during the intersessional period;
8. Requests the Executive Director to develop innovative approaches and to mobilize adequate financial resources, including for innovative activities;
9. Requests the Executive Director to submit to the Governing Council at its twentieth session the budget and work programme for the biennium 2006-2007 in a prioritized and integrated document, taking into account the recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions in its report dated 13 March 2003;
10. Also requests the Executive Director to present progress reports on a regular basis, to the Committee of Permanent Representatives, on the implementation of the 2004-2005 work programme.

8th meeting
9 May 2003

19/3. Global campaigns on secure tenure and urban governance

The Governing Council,

Recalling the goals and principles, commitments and recommendations of the Habitat Agenda<sup>2</sup> on the themes “Adequate shelter for all” and “Sustainable human settlements development in an urbanizing world”,

Recalling also the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium,<sup>6</sup> adopted by the General Assembly at its twenty-fifth special session,

Recalling further the adoption on 4 September 2002 of the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development,<sup>9</sup>

Recalling General Assembly resolution 56/205 of 21 December 2001, on the special session of the General Assembly for an overall review and appraisal of the implementation of the outcome of the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II), which designates the two global campaigns on secure tenure and urban governance as strategic points of entry for the effective implementation of the Habitat Agenda, and Commission on Human Settlements resolution 18/3 of 16 February 2001 on the same topic,

Noting with satisfaction the activities undertaken by the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT) to promote the global campaigns, including the launches and follow-up activities under way in all regions, and the knowledge-management instruments developed to support the implementation of the two global campaigns,

Noting with appreciation the efforts of Governments in initiating campaign activities, organizing campaign launches and adopting national action plans to improve security of tenure and urban governance,

Aware of the active partnerships established with new and existing Habitat Agenda partners around the two campaigns, including joint activities with coalitions of non-governmental organizations and community-based organizations, with the associations of local authorities and with other United Nations organizations, and of the efforts to mainstream the global campaigns in global programmes, including the increasing convergence of the activities of the Global Campaign on Urban Governance with the Urban Management Programme,

Noting further the cooperation between UN-HABITAT and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights on the United Nations Housing Rights Programme as an important component in the advocacy work within the two global campaigns,

Aware that safe water and basic sanitation are central to achieving sustainable urbanization and reducing urban poverty,

Aware also of the need for capacity-building, education, access to information and gender mainstreaming for enhanced effectiveness in water and sanitation management,

Bearing in mind that UN-HABITAT is a member of the United Nations Development Group, whose principal objective is to strengthen the policy and programme coherence of United Nations development activities,

Noting with regret that international cooperation in shelter and human settlements has not been enhanced significantly since the adoption of the Habitat Agenda in 1996, which is a growing cause for concern as noted in the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium,<sup>6</sup>

Acknowledging that UN-HABITAT is the lead United Nations agency in all areas of shelter and human settlements development and has responsibility to promote, facilitate and provide technical cooperation to developing countries and countries with economies in transition, by the recent signing of memorandums of understanding with the Asian Development Bank and Inter-American Development Bank and calls upon the Executive Director to pursue such initiatives in other regions;

4. Recalling also and in particular paragraph 3 of part I A of that resolution, whereby the General Assembly decided that the practices regarding the participation of Habitat Agenda partners in the

Governing Council would be according to the relevant rules of the Economic and Social Council with regard to participation and accreditation, that the established practices of the Commission on Human Settlements would be utilized, and that such practices would in no way create a precedent for other governing bodies of the subsidiary organs of the General Assembly,

Recalling further General Assembly resolution 50/100 of 20 December 1995 which, inter alia, endorsed the rules of procedure for the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II) in Istanbul, Turkey from 3 to 14 June 1996, and particularly Rules 62 and 63, on the participation of designated representatives of local authorities and accredited non-governmental organizations in the deliberations of Habitat II,

Bearing in mind paragraph 21 of General Assembly resolution 51/177 of 16 December 1996, in which the Assembly requested the Commission on Human Settlements to review its working methods in order to involve in its work the representatives of local authorities or international associations of local authorities, as appropriate, and the relevant actors of civil society, taking into account the rules and procedure of the Commission on Human Settlements and the relevant provisions of Economic and Social Council resolution 1996/31 of 25 July 1996,

1. Decides to reconfirm, on request, the accreditation to the Governing Council of local authorities and other Habitat Agenda partners that were accredited to the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II) and to the special session of the General Assembly for an overall review and appraisal of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda;
2. Decides further that accreditation of other local authorities referred to in rule 64 of the rules of procedure shall be approved by the Governing Council on the recommendation of the Executive Director in consultation with the Bureau of the Governing Council;

8th meeting
9 May 2003

19/10. Urban-rural linkages and sustainable urbanization

The Governing Council,

Recalling paragraph 6 of the Istanbul Declaration on Human Settlements<sup>5</sup> and paragraphs 163 and 169 of the Habitat Agenda,<sup>2</sup> which emphasize that urban and rural areas are interdependent economically, socially and environmentally and that an integrated approach is required to promote balanced and mutually supportive urban-rural development,

Recalling also resolution 17/10 of 14 May 1999 of the Commission on Human Settlements, which requested that urban-rural interdependence be taken into consideration in the execution of the work programme of United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT) given the strong synergy between urban and rural areas,

Recalling further paragraph 3 of the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium,<sup>6</sup> which emphasizes that cities and towns are engines of growth contributing to the development of both rural and urban human settlements,

Recognizing that rural-urban linkages refer to complementary functions and flows of people, capital, goods, employment, information and technology between rural and urban areas,

Noting the significance attached to the subject during the Habitat Agenda partner dialogues on sustainable urbanization at both the first session of the World Urban Forum<sup>13</sup> and at the World Summit on Sustainable Development, Johannesburg, South Africa, 26 August- 4 September 2002,

Acknowledging the importance of rural-urban complementarities for poverty alleviation and sustainable rural development and urbanization, and that positive urban-rural linkages can improve living conditions and employment opportunities for both rural and urban populations and thus help manage rural-urban migration,

Recognizing that domestic trade and infrastructure are the backbone of mutually beneficial urban-rural relationships and that the adequacy and efficiency of infrastructure provision determines, to a large extent, the success or failure of the relationships between cities and their rural hinterlands,

Recognizing also the importance of gender mainstreaming in all efforts related to the integration of the rural-urban dimension in sustainable human settlements development and management,

Recognizing further the importance of pro-poor economic and social policies given that rural-urban linkages provide opportunities for as well as constraints on poverty reduction,

Taking note of the theme paper<sup>21</sup> presented by the Executive Director,

Noting with appreciation the work which has already been carried out by UN-HABITAT in promoting urban-rural linkages in human settlements development and management,

1. Encourages Governments to institutionalize and integrate rural-urban linkages into their respective national and subnational development planning processes and to increase investment in physical, economic and social infrastructure with a view to stimulating sustainable local development, and increasing productivity and sustained economic growth, minimizing the ecological footprints of cities and enhancing better balanced and reciprocally beneficial urban-rural development and thus promoting sustainable urbanization;

2. Also encourages Governments to create as appropriate, or where they already exist to strengthen mechanisms for regional planning that view urban development from a holistic perspective;

3. Invites Governments to facilitate, inter alia through those mechanisms, the access of the poorer segments of both rural and urban populations to a variety of livelihood opportunities;

4. Requests the Executive Director to raise awareness regarding the direct relationship between positive urban-rural development linkages and sustainable urbanization and to help develop the capacity of central government and local authorities in that area, particularly in developing countries;

5. Also requests the Executive Director, in cooperation with appropriate partners, to disseminate good practices and policies on mutually beneficial urban-rural development relationships which could be replicated in other countries, and to help develop the capacity of central Governments and local authorities in that area;

6. Invites Governments, bilateral agencies, multilateral organizations and private-sector organizations to consider providing resources to UN-HABITAT to support its work on promoting positive urban-rural linkages in the framework of sustainable urbanization strategies;

7. Requests the Executive Director to report to it at its next session on progress made in the implementation of the present resolution.

8th meeting
9 May 2003

19/11. Strengthening the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation

The Governing Council,

Welcoming General Assembly resolution 56/206 of 21 December 2001, which transformed the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements into a full-fledged United Nations Human Settlements Programme known as “UN-HABITAT” to enable it to better deliver its mandate of promoting and facilitating adequate shelter for all and sustainable human settlements development, of coordinating the implementation of the Habitat Agenda<sup>2</sup> and of serving as a focal point for sustainable human settlements development issues in the United Nations system,

Aware of the General Assembly’s concern, expressed in resolution 56/206, that urgent steps should be taken to ensure a better mobilization of financial resources at all levels to enhance the implementation of the Habitat Agenda, particularly in developing countries, with a view to improving human settlements, and recalling the commitments of Governments to, inter alia, promoting broad access to appropriate housing financing, increasing the supply of affordable housing and creating an enabling environment for sustainable development that will attract investment,

Noting the failure of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation to develop as the financial and catalytic institution originally envisaged to support the implementation of the Habitat Agenda, including supporting shelter, related infrastructure development programmes and housing finance institutions and mechanisms, particularly in developing countries,

Welcoming General Assembly resolution 56/206, which encourages the Executive Director of UN-HABITAT to strengthen the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation and to enhance fundraising efforts to facilitate the implementation of the Habitat Agenda,

Recalling the United Nations Millennium Declaration,<sup>3</sup> and particularly the targets of achieving a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum dwellers by the year 2020 and of halving by 2015 the proportion of people without sustainable access to safe drinking water,

Recalling also the Johannesburg Declaration on Sustainable Development<sup>22</sup> and the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development, and particularly the target of halving by 2015 the proportion of people who do not have access to basic sanitation,

Recalling further chapter 7 of Agenda 21,<sup>23</sup> on promoting sustainable human settlements development, for which UN-HABITAT is a designated focal point,

Recalling the Monterrey Consensus of the International Conference on Financing for Development,<sup>15</sup> and in particular the recognition of the need to mobilize domestic financial resources for development and investments, including in the fields of housing and shelter, and to reinforce national efforts in capacity-building in developing countries as well as countries with economies in transition in such areas as public finance and mortgage finance,

Recalling also the Habitat Agenda, particularly its section E on international cooperation and coordination and those elements on domestic financial resources and economic instruments, and the Declaration on Cities and other Human Settlements in the New Millennium<sup>6</sup> made by the General Assembly at its special session for an overall review and appraisal of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda (Istanbul + 5) in June 2001,

Noting that according to recent studies<sup>24</sup> there are nearly 1 billion poor people living in urban slums in developing countries, that that figure is projected to double by the year 2030 if present trends continue, accounting for approximately 40 per cent of the projected growth in the world population during that period, and that the anticipated growth of urban poverty and the anticipated increase in the number of poor people living in slums require positive and concrete action at national and international levels to find and implement solutions,

Noting also that financing from international sources can have an important catalytic and preparatory role to play in leveraging domestic investment funding for the alleviation of shelter and human settlement development problems,

Recognizing that financing sustainable urban development and revitalization, facilitating local communities' access to capital and attracting investment to urban development require innovative systems of financing at the international, national and local levels,

Stressing the need to strengthen the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation to facilitate requisite investments for improving human settlements for low-income and poor people, particularly in developing and transitional-economy countries,

Having considered the report<sup>25</sup> of the Executive Director on strengthening the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation,

1. Commends the progress made by the Executive Director in strengthening the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation as exemplified by the doubling of total financial contributions in the current biennium, the resumption of funding from some member States that had suspended support pending revitalization and management reforms, the conclusion of multi-year commitments to finance core programmes of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation by some member States and the forging of new partnerships with multilateral financial institutions and regional development banks with a view to developing fast-track credit lines in support of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda and the international development goals of the Millennium Declaration and Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development;

2. Urges the international community, particularly developed countries and others in a position to do so, to further extend their financial support to enable the Foundation to become effective in mobilizing domestic resources, both from the private and public sectors, for shelter and related infrastructure in developing countries, with special focus on the needs of slum dwellers and low-income people;

3. Requests the Executive Director to continue the work in strengthening the Foundation so as to provide finance for, inter alia:

- (a) Supporting the core staff and programmes of UN-HABITAT;
- (b) Mobilization of seed capital, domestic and other financial resources for shelter and related infrastructure with due priority to the needs of low-income households;
- (c) Technical support services to foster and improve effectiveness in developing countries and countries with economies in transition for the mobilization and utilization of domestic resources for the improvement of human settlements and to assist countries at both national and local levels in the preparation and implementation of projects;

4. Requests the Executive Director to continue to work with the World Bank Group, regional development banks, other development banks, the private sector and other relevant partners to field test approaches through pilot projects and to develop longer term programmes to mobilize resources to increase the supply of affordable credit for slum upgrading and other pro-poor human settlements development in developing countries and countries with economies in transition;

5. Decides to defer decisions on setting funding targets for the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation activities set out under paragraph 3 above to the Governing Council at its twentieth session pending review in the light of experience gained and developments during the intervening period;

6. Requests the Executive Director to report to it at its next session on progress made in the implementation of the present resolution.

Taking note of the report of the Executive Director entitled “Dialogues on effective decentralization and strengthening of local authorities”<sup>27</sup> and welcoming the efforts of the Executive Director to intensify the dialogue on decentralization and the strengthening of local authorities among all levels of Governments,

1. Requests the Executive Director to take further steps and measures to intensify dialogue on decentralization and strengthening of local authorities among Governments, local authorities and other Habitat Agenda partners, including through the Committee of Permanent Representatives to UN-HABITAT, the Advisory Committee of Local Authorities and at the second session of the World Urban Forum, with the aim of developing recommendations to be presented to the twentieth session of the Governing Council and documenting best practices.

2. Endorses the proposal, made by the Executive Director in her report, to establish, in consultation with the Committee of Permanent Representatives, a multi-disciplinary ad hoc advisory panel on decentralization with balanced participation of developing and developed countries to support the dialogue process;

3. Requests the Executive Director to take all necessary steps towards establishment of the ad-hoc advisory panel referred to in the previous paragraph and, if necessary, to initiate efforts to mobilize additional extra-budgetary resources to enable the ad hoc advisory panel to continue its tasks;

4. Requests the Executive Director to report to it at its next session on progress made in the implementation of the present resolution.

19/16 Women's role and rights in human settlements development and slum upgrading

The Governing Council,

Recalling the commitment made by Governments in the Istanbul Declaration on Human Settlements<sup>6</sup> to ensure the full and equal participation of all women and men and the effective participation of youth in political, economic and social life,

Recognizing that the empowerment of women and their full and equal participation in political, social and economic life, the improvement of health and the eradication of poverty are essential to achieving sustainable human settlements (resolution 17/11 of 14 May 1999),

Bearing in mind the importance that the Habitat Agenda,<sup>2</sup> adopted by the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II), places on women's equal access to adequate housing, land and property, and the importance of all actors adopting and implementing policies, laws and programmes aimed at the realization of these rights,

Recalling paragraph 23 of the Habitat Agenda, which states that, "[w]hile the significance of national and regional particularities and various historical, cultural and religious backgrounds must be borne in mind, it is the duty of all States to promote and protect all human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the right to development”,

Recalling further paragraph 24 of the Habitat Agenda, which states that “implementation of the Habitat Agenda, including implementation through national laws and development priorities, programmes and policies, is the sovereign right and responsibility of each State in conformity with all human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the right to development, and taking into account the significance of and with full respect for various religious and ethical values, cultural backgrounds and philosophical convictions of individuals and their communities, contributing to the full enjoyment by all of their human rights in order to achieve the objectives of adequate shelter for all and sustainable human settlements development”,

Also recalling the Convention on the Elimination of All forms of Discrimination Against Women,

Mindful of the commitment to formulate and strengthen policies and practices to promote the full and equal participation of women in human settlements, planning and decision-making, made in the Habitat Agenda (inter alia, paragraph 184), and reaffirmed in the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium<sup>6</sup> (inter alia, paragraph 44),

3. Invites Governments to increase financial and other assistance to UN-HABITAT to enable the Programme to strengthen the mainstreaming of gender issues and the work of the Gender Coordinating Unit, in particular in support of gender-specific slum upgrading projects and especially those related to employment creation, women's empowerment, housing improvement and property rights;
4. Also requests Governments to promote and protect women's equal access to adequate housing, property and land including rights to inheritance, and to secure access to credit through appropriate constitutional, legislative and administrative measures;
5. Encourages Governments to support the transformation of customs and practices that discriminate against women and deny women security of tenure and equal ownership of, access to and control over land and equal rights to own property and to adequate housing;
6. Urges Governments to address the issue of forced relocation and forced evictions<sup>29</sup> from home and land, and to eliminate its disproportionate impact on women;

Recognizing the need for continued cooperation among member states within the spirit of the Declaration on Cities and other Human Settlements in the New Millennium<sup>6</sup> to achieve practical programmes that enhance sustainable shelter development goals,

Conscious of the special housing and human settlements needs of the Palestinian people and recognizing that they fall within the technical mandate of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT),

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 32/162 of 19 December 1977, entitled “Institutional arrangements for international cooperation in the field of human settlements”, and in particular its part VIII, “Cooperation with organizations outside the United Nations system”,

Recalling further its resolution 19/-- of -- May 2003 entitled “Rules of procedure of the Governing Council of UN-HABITAT”, and in particular rules 64, 65 and 66 regarding the role of local authorities and other Habitat Agenda partners in the deliberations of the Governing Council and its subsidiary bodies,

Bearing in mind paragraph 21 of General Assembly resolution 51/177 of 16 December 1996, in which the Assembly requested the Commission on Human Settlements to review its working methods in order to involve in its work the representatives of local authorities or international associations of local authorities, as appropriate, and the relevant actors of civil society, taking into account the rules and procedure of the Commission on Human Settlements and the relevant provisions of Economic and Social Council resolution 1996/31 of 25 July 1996,

1. Decides to reconfirm, on request, the accreditation to the Governing Council of local authorities and other Habitat Agenda partners that were accredited to the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II) and to the special session of the General Assembly for an overall review and appraisal of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda;

2. Decides further that accreditation of other local authorities referred to in Rule 64 of the Rules of Procedure shall be approved by the Governing Council on the recommendation of the Executive Director in consultation with the Bureau of the Governing Council;

3. Decides also that accreditation shall be automatically granted, on request, to non-governmental organizations, including other Habitat Agenda partners, which are in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council;

4. Decides further that other Habitat Agenda partners referred to in Rule 65 of the Rules of Procedure that were not accredited according to operative paragraphs 1 and 3 above may be invited by the Executive Director and accredited on an ad hoc basis to a session of the Governing Council: the Executive Director shall submit the list of such partners to the Committee of Permanent Representatives for approval on a no-objection basis by final decision of the Committee, and to Governments not represented on the Committee of Permanent Representatives for their consideration, 10 weeks in advance of the Governing Council session;

5. Requests the Executive Director to disseminate widely all relevant information on procedures for accreditation of local authorities and other Habitat Agenda partners.

Oral statement by the Chairman of the Working Group on Rules of Procedure of the Governing Council

This statement clarifies (i) the meaning of the phrase “recognized by the United Nations”, inserted in Rule 64, referring to “national or international associations or organizations of local authorities” and (ii) the requirement that the Secretariat highlight for all United Nations Member States the content of Rule 64 and ask if they require consultation before the Executive Director invites their respective local authorities to a Governing Council session.

Rule 64, as agreed upon in the Working Group, reads as follows:

“Duly accredited representatives of local authorities, invited by the Executive Director, in consultation with their respective governments, where requested, or representing national or international associations or organizations recognized by the United Nations, may participate, as observers at public meetings, in the deliberations of the Governing Council and its subsidiary bodies.”

The Working Group understands that national or international associations or organizations of local authorities may be considered to be “recognized by the United Nations” if they have been accredited to any conference or intergovernmental meeting under the auspices of the United Nations or its principal or subsidiary organs, or if they enjoy Economic and Social Council consultative status.

Furthermore, national or international associations or organizations of local authorities that meet neither of the above conditions must be approved (i.e., “recognized”) by a relevant intergovernmental organ of the United Nations. Such organs include: the UN-HABITAT Governing Council itself, the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly. The approval of the UN-HABITAT Governing Council should be sufficient for the participation of those associations and organizations in its meetings.

The Working Group also agreed that the Executive Director will notify all Member States of the United Nations, at least six months before the next Governing Council meeting, of the provision on consultation of Governments contained in Rule 64 and ask the Member States if they require such consultation. Once a Government has indicated that it requires to be consulted, that requirement shall remain in force until withdrawn, in writing, by that Government.

SUMMARIES BY THE CHAIR OF THE HIGH-LEVEL SEGMENT OF THE NINETEENTH SESSION OF THE GOVERNING COUNCIL OF THE UNITED NATIONS HUMAN SETTLEMENTS PROGRAMME AND OF THE DIALOGUES ON EFFECTIVE DECENTRALIZATION AND THE STRENGTHENING OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES AND FINANCING SLUM UPGRADING

A. High-level segment

Introduction

1. The high-level segment of the nineteenth session of the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme comprised three plenary meetings, held on 5, 6 and 9 May 2003. Discussions focused on the following two main issues: the activities of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT); progress report of the Executive Director (agenda item 4); and the follow-up to the twenty-fifth special session of the General Assembly for an overall review and appraisal of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda<sup>2</sup> (agenda item 5). The two items were introduced by the Executive Director.

1. Activities of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme: Progress report of the Executive Director

2. Many delegations expressed their approval of the UN-HABITAT work programme, and in particular its two objectives of “adequate shelter for all” and “sustainable human settlements development in an urbanizing world.” Some delegations praised the report on the utilization of resources, as well as the inclusion of a subprogramme on financing human settlements in the UN-HABITAT medium-term plan.

3. Several delegations emphasized the positive role played by UN-HABITAT and UN-HABITAT mechanisms in their countries. It was stressed, however, that UN-HABITAT needed to move firmly to implement concrete projects in cooperation with national Governments, and in this connection, it was argued that UN-HABITAT should strive to strengthen and expand its network of regional offices. Those delegations called for a stronger, more action-oriented UN-HABITAT, but also praised UN-HABITAT for the update of its strategic vision to incorporate both normative and operational elements. Other delegations urged UN-HABITAT not to spread itself too thinly, but to focus instead on its core areas or areas of particular importance such as water and sustainable environmental planning and improvement of management practices, as called for in the General Assembly’s Declaration on Cities and other Human Settlements in the New Millennium.<sup>6</sup>

4. A number of delegations expressed the view that poverty and other issues affected women and youth in particular and argued for the need to integrate their needs into all policies.

5. Many delegations stressed the importance of decentralization of governmental authority, arguing that it was critical to successful programmes. Some observed that while many central Governments had already devolved considerable responsibility for human settlements issues to local governments, budget authority had not always been correspondingly delegated. In a similar vein, one delegation asserted that it was time for UN-HABITAT to decentralize its programmes to the national level, noting that there were a number of decentralized UN-HABITAT programmes in its country, and welcoming the Executive Director’s policy statement on the establishment of a national-level partnership between UN-Habitat and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP).

6. The importance of partnerships was emphasized repeatedly. The view generally held was that the United Nations and other international organizations could not successfully address the challenges posed by rapid urbanization without partnerships with all sectors of civil society, including the for-profit sector, academia and others. Poverty and other human settlements issues were complex, and their solution would therefore require an integrated approach, based on community participation. Impediments to greater civil society involvement in UN-HABITAT's activities included lack of involvement in programmatic issues, inadequate technical capabilities and lack of financial resources. In this vein, it was observed that UN-HABITAT's well-established practice of partnership was one of its greatest assets. Greater involvement of civil society in UN-HABITAT's activities was urged, and it was suggested that the Governing Council's rules of procedure should be structured in such a way as to secure the active participation of UN-HABITAT partners. It was also emphasized that UN-HABITAT programmes had to be consistent with the programmes and priorities of national Governments, and UN-HABITAT was encouraged to maintain a continuous dialogue with Governments and other Habitat Agenda partners.

7. Many delegations stressed the importance of providing increased funds to UN-HABITAT; most called for more contributions of non-earmarked funds, but one asserted that contributions should be aimed mainly at the core activities of UN-HABITAT. It was pointed out that most contributions came from a small number of donor countries, and countries from all points on the development spectrum were called on to increase their contributions. The need for increased, and more predictable, funding was raised; States that had not contributed previously were urged to do so. The strengthening of the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlement Foundation was also called for, in line with General Assembly resolution 3327 (XXXX) of 16 December 1974. By the same token, several delegations cautioned that UN-HABITAT's budget should be kept on a realistic and achievable basis, and should be based on a zero growth principle with respect to its impact on the regular United Nations budget. A number of delegations lamented what they described as a drop in the level of international support for shelter for the poor, while another argued for measures to enable the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation to mobilize funds and financing for developing country implementation of the Habitat Agenda. Debt burden, trade limitations and inadequacy of new and additional resources affected the implementation of the Habitat Agenda in developing countries operating in an international environment.

8. In the context of the funding of UN-HABITAT, the delegation of Kenya pledged an increase in its country's contribution to 3.8 million Kenyan Shillings annually for three years, starting with the 2004/2005 financial year.

9. The delegation of Norway announced that it would respond to the calls by the Executive Director for more stable and predictable funding by pledging to contribute two million Norwegian Kroner to the Water and Sanitation Trust Fund, in addition to the 10 million Norwegian Kroner it had already contributed to UN-HABITAT for 2003.

10. The importance of monitoring UN-HABITAT activities at both national and local levels was raised, and it was suggested that an updated and regularly issued Global Report on Human Settlements, together with more focused in-depth reports, could serve this function. The UN-HABITAT Global Urban Observatories were also identified as vehicles through which effective research and monitoring could be achieved. In light of this, the need for Governments to continue supporting the monitoring of national and local trends in the implementation of the Habitat Agenda, the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium and relevant goals of the Millennium Declaration was emphasized.

11. While praising UN-HABITAT's activities, several delegations argued that developing countries were not adequately represented in UN-HABITAT and the rest of the United Nations system with respect to the recruitment of personnel and human resources.

12. A number of delegations expressed their commitment to the implementation of the Millennium Development Goals and the Johannesburg Plan of Action as they pertained to housing and called on development partners to join hands in these endeavours.

13. Several delegations from countries devastated by conflict detailed the resulting massive destruction of human settlements and enormous numbers of displaced persons and refugees. One delegation requested that development partners strengthen efforts to provide assistance and honour their commitments to war-torn countries.

14. The delegation from Uganda pledged that his country would make a humble contribution to the Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation as a mark of its full support for a revitalized Foundation capable of catering for slum upgrading programmes.

15. Several delegations commended the elevation of the Committee of Permanent Representatives to UN-HABITAT as an intersessional body to represent the Governing Council.

16. One delegation expressed doubts about the viability of a World Charter of Local Self-Government on a binding basis. He requested further discussions on this topic.

17. A delegation welcomed the outcome of the Third World Water Forum held in Kyoto, in March 2003 and the UN-HABITAT report on "Water and Sanitation in the World's Cities - Local Actions for Global Goals", and looked forward to the timely implementation of its adopted Ministerial Declaration.

18. The delegation from Cameroon noted two forthcoming events in Yaounde, Cameroon, that is the twenty-second General Assembly of Shelter Afrique in June 2003 and the third edition of Africites in December 2003.

2. Follow-up to the twenty-fifth special session of the General Assembly for an overall review and appraisal of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda (agenda item 5)

19. Most delegations reaffirmed their commitment to the implementation of the Habitat Agenda and the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium. Many delegations also welcomed the outcomes of the World Summit on Sustainable Development and its linkages to the Habitat Agenda, the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium and to the relevant goals of the Millennium Declaration.

20. Many delegations noted that the current session was the first since the elevation of UN-HABITAT to a full programme of the United Nations, and all welcomed the new status of UN-HABITAT which would enhance its ability to advance the human settlements agenda and to implement the goals of the Millennium Declaration. It also implied a heightened responsibility to act effectively, and more would now be expected of it. Furthermore, the elevation of UN-HABITAT was evidence that the international community was taking human settlements issues seriously.

21. Many delegations also paid tribute to the Executive Director, praising her efforts and role in solving the problems that had beset the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat) and in guiding it through the process of change that had culminated in its elevation to the United Nations Human Settlements Programme.

22. Most delegations spoke of rapid urbanization as a crucial phenomenon with a profound impact on human settlements issues. That phenomenon posed one of the greatest challenges to implementation of the Habitat Agenda; others included poverty, lack of adequate shelter, insecurity of tenure and lack of good governance. In light of such issues, many delegations voiced their support for the UN-HABITAT medium-term plan.

23. The representative of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) highlighted UNDP's commitment to the implementation of the Habitat Agenda and to continued collaboration with UN-HABITAT, as well as to strengthening its partnership with local authorities, especially in addressing peri-urban problems.

24. A number of developing country delegations outlined steps that were being taken in their countries in the area of human settlements. These included stepped-up urban and rural housing and infrastructure development within a framework of sustainable development, legislation to regularize informal settlements and otherwise provide secure tenure, enhanced pollution control, increased urban planning, including the use of urban master plans, and government assistance in the area of shelter finance or improvements in access to private sector credit. Several noted considerable progress in areas such as housing availability, pointing out high levels of home ownership or occupancy, and access to clean water and sanitation. Others spoke of successful decentralization. One delegation noted that the goal of housing availability had been achieved in his country, and the focus had therefore now shifted to guaranteeing a desirable standard of living and to improving sub-standard housing.

25. A number of developing country delegations noted that reforms and policies had been enacted in their countries, but some had not yet been implemented for lack of funding.

26. Most delegations recognized the importance of linkages between urban and rural areas, and emphasized the need to improve rural life as a means of removing the incentive for excessive rural-urban migration. Preventing such migration any other way would be impractical. At the same time, it was recognized that urbanization was not an unqualified evil, and that cities provided many benefits. Rather than attempt to eliminate or reduce either rural or urban settlements, ways had to be found to make the two complement one another.

27. The role of poverty and its impact on all was stressed. Macroeconomic considerations too were seen as impediments to sustainable human settlements; high-interest rates, high inflation and unstable exchange rates all made private investment in shelter – which was seen as critical to sustainable settlements – difficult and often impossible, especially for the poor. In this regard, it was noted that there was a great need for pro-poor international funding mechanisms in the area of housing and human settlements, and the Executive Director's initiative on the proposed Global Shelter Facility was praised as a step in the right direction.

28. The need to strengthen partnerships for the mobilization of resources for investment in shelter and sustainable human settlements development was also emphasized by a number of delegations, as was the need for innovative financial mechanisms and upgrading of skills in developing countries for the implementation of the Habitat Agenda, the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium and the Millennium Declaration.

29. The delegation from Spain introduced the Universal Cultural Forum to be held in Barcelona in September 2004. This was a new type of international event under the auspices of UNESCO, which provided an opportunity for civil society and international society to interact. The three main themes of the Forum seen as defining issues for mankind and the planet were peace; sustainable development and cultural diversity; and dialogue between cultures and civil society. Intense negotiations were also ongoing in preparation for the second session of the World Urban Forum, also to be held in Barcelona, from 13 to 17 September 2004.

B. Dialogue I: Effective Decentralization and the Strengthening of Local Authorities

30. A dialogue on effective decentralization and strengthening of local authorities was held on 6 and 7 May 2003. The first part of the dialogue, on effective decentralization, was held at the 4th plenary meeting on 6 May 2003; the second part, on strengthening local authorities, was held at the 5th plenary meeting on 7 May 2003.

Part 1: Effective decentralization

1. Introduction

31. The dialogue on effective decentralization was opened by the President of the Governing Council, Mr Bo Göransson, and moderated by Ms. Mercedes Bresso, President of the World Associations of Cities and Local Authorities Coordination (WACLAC) and the United Towns Organizations (UTO). The subject was introduced by a panel of experts consisting of Mr. Richard Stren, Professor of Political Economy, University of Toronto, Canada; Mr. John Patrick Loughlin of the School of European Studies, Cardiff University, Wales, the United Kingdom; Ms. Christina Murray, Professor of Public Law, University of Cape Town, Republic of South Africa; Mr. Derek Osborn, a representative of the Regional Government Network for Sustainable Development, London, United Kingdom; Mr. Brian Ward of the International Centre for Municipal Development of the Federation of Canadian Municipalities, Ottawa, Canada; and Ms. Erna Witoelar, Senior Regional Advisor, the Urban Governance Initiative (TUGI) of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) Asia Pacific Region.

32. The dialogue session on effective decentralization addressed the role of decentralization policies and principles in strengthening local governments to implement the Habitat Agenda and achieve sustainable development, as well as the commitments required from both local and national governments to achieve effective decentralization. It was held pursuant to Commission on Human Settlements resolution 18/11, which requested the Executive Director of UN-HABITAT to intensify dialogue among all levels of Governments and Habitat Partners on all issues related to effective decentralization and the strengthening of local authorities, including principles, and as appropriate, legal frameworks, in support of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda. A first dialogue on the subject was held at the First World Urban Forum in May 2002.

33. In introducing this dialogue, the panel of experts on decentralization expressed their views on the role of decentralization policies in generating effective and participatory governance and the desirability of mutually agreed upon principles and guidelines on decentralization to support the process of strengthening local governments. These observations were made in response to a presentation by one of the experts of a twenty-eight country review on decentralization policies and on proposed areas, derived from that review, in which principles of decentralization may be further developed (i.e. constitutional and legal frameworks; democratization and popular participation; and finance and fiscal arrangements). The general consensus of the experts was that such principles were desirable, but that in order to be effective, decentralization policies would need to combine decentralization of responsibilities with sufficient decentralization of resources and fiscal powers. Moreover, decentralization policies need to be spatially balanced, to be equitable and to enhance participation and to address the sub-national (regional) level.

2. Discussion

34. In the discussion that followed, statements and observations were made by representatives of Belgium, Burkina Faso, Egypt, France, Greece (on behalf of the European Union and the 10 accession States), India, Indonesia, Lesotho, Mexico, Switzerland, Uganda, United Republic of Tanzania and the United States of America. The representative of the Holy See also made a statement. A statement was also made by a representative of the Rio Urbano Foundation.

35. There was a general consensus among Governments responding to the presentations by the expert panelists of the positive role that decentralization policies can play to achieve sustainable human settlements development and the implementation of the Habitat Agenda. They generally expressed their support for the continuation of the dialogue on decentralization and of the development of possible principles. One delegation in particular, representing a grouping of countries, voiced strong and specific support for the establishment of an ad hoc advisory panel of experts to advise the dialogue process and for a substantial international framework of principles and guidelines on decentralization. Other representatives also highlighted their own experience with decentralization, which they generally evaluated as positive. One delegation, while generally supportive, emphasized that political decentralization must be linked to progress in social and economic development.

36. The issue of whether decentralization facilitates democracy was also addressed, as it was noted that there is often a close connection, though not necessarily a causal one. Several representatives also took the opportunity to offer clarifications on their country's situation concerning decentralization with regard to the conclusions of the background document for the dialogue. The dialogue session concluded with summary remarks from a representative on the panel from the International Union of Local Authorities (IULA), Mr. Heinrich Hoffschulte, First Vice-President of the Council of Municipalities and Regions, the European Section of IULA, who welcomed the observations by Member States and their overall positive response to the presentations by the panel of experts.

Part 2: Strengthening of Local Authorities

1. Introduction

37. A dialogue with local authorities and other partners on the strengthening of local authorities was held at the 5th plenary meeting, on 7 May 2003 in the morning. Aside from formal documentation<sup>33</sup> the dialogue was supported by an informal background document jointly prepared by UN-HABITAT and the World Association of Cities and Local Authorities Coordination (WACLAC) entitled "Partnership for Local Capacity Development – building on the experience of city-to-city cooperation".

38. The dialogue was opened by Mr. Bo Göransson, President of the Governing Council, who delivered introductory remarks and then handed moderation of the meeting to Ms. Mercedes Bresso, President of the World Association of Cities and Local Authorities Coordination (WACLAC). The dialogue was organized in three segments, each addressing the strengthening of local authorities from the distinct perspective of one of three key partner groups whose cooperation is required. The perspective of local authorities was discussed in the first segment with introductions from three mayors and heads of local authorities<sup>34</sup>. The perspective of international support programmes was discussed in the second segment with introductions from two representatives of local authority associations and international support programmes<sup>35</sup>. The perspective of the donor community was discussed in the third segment with introductions from representatives of France, United States of America and United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland<sup>36</sup>. There were lively contributions from the floor<sup>37</sup>. The President of the Governing Council closed the dialogue with concluding remarks.

2. Discussion

39. In debating the strengthening of local authorities, the speakers focused on three broad issues: the reasons and priorities for strengthening local authorities; the key partners in local capacity development and their roles; and the need to harmonize the diverse efforts of these key partner groups. Participants also shared practical lessons from concrete operational experience in the strengthening of local authorities.

40. Regarding the first issue, speakers noted that the strengthening of local authorities is closely linked to the debates on decentralization, local democracy, good governance, and the implementation of the principles of subsidiarity as agreed in the Habitat Agenda. Participants also observed that the need for the strengthening of local planning and management capacities has been emphasized in virtually all major global intergovernmental agreements, such as the Habitat Agenda, Agenda 21, the Millennium Development Goals, and the outcome of the World Summit on Sustainable Development. All these stress local capacity development as a key prerequisite for achieving such fundamental development goals as poverty alleviation, gender equality, as well as socially, economically and environmentally sustainable development. Some participants highlighted in this context the important role of local authorities, for ensuring such vital services as water, sanitation, health, public transport, shelter, energy and security. Others felt that the need to strengthen the role of local authorities already is generally accepted. Speakers further underscored local management capacity as a significant factor in attracting private sector investment.

41. Regarding the second issue, speakers noted the important role of local authorities as the closest partners of national governments in the development of management capacities among all those local actors in the public, private and community sectors whose active participation is required. It was also argued that national Governments have a key role in providing the legal framework for local capacity development and in supporting all forms of capacity building – rather than using the lack of local capacities as a reason for opposing decentralization. This should include such strategic local capacity needs as the ability to effectively link across levels of government, the establishment of national associations of local authorities and the international sharing of know-how and lessons of experience. Speakers also commented on the important contributions made to these local efforts by international support programmes which differ in many important ways, reflecting the diversity of interests, resources and institutions from which they originate. In this context repeated mention was made of city-to-city cooperation as a cost effective means for local capacity development. Further, the important role of donors in strategically funding capacity development programmes of various types so as to respond to local priorities and promote cohesion and complementarity within the international development community was recognized. Speakers argued for making existing programmes more effective rather than creating new ones.

42. Regarding the third issue, speakers recognized the need for a systematic partnership among key interest groups in local capacity development, including local authorities and other local actors, national governments, international support programmes, and the donor community. The need for a common framework for city-to-city cooperation was suggested to develop the potential of peer to peer learning by capturing lessons and offering tools without limiting flexibility in the cooperation among cities. To facilitate such cooperation, participants highlighted the need for better information on city needs and available support. The “Partnership for Local Capacity Development”, described in the WACLAC/UN-HABITAT background document, was recognized as a significant initiative that will promote the development of local capacities.

C. Dialogue II: Financing slum upgrading

1. Introduction

43. The dialogue on financing slum upgrading was held at the 6th plenary meeting on 7 May 2003 in the afternoon. The dialogue was presided over by Mr. Bo Göransson, the President of the Governing Council and moderated by Mr. John Hodges, formerly chief engineering advisor to the United Kingdom Department for International Development. The session generated debate on ways of mobilizing finance to improve the living and working conditions of the urban poor, including shelter, basic services, assets, small-scale enterprises, and other collective services, in line with the Cities without Slums Target of the Millennium Development Goals. The dialogue also served as an opportunity for delegates to the Governing Council to learn more about the substantive aspects inherent in strengthening the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation.

2. Discussion

44. At the outset of the session, Mr. Jeffrey Sachs, Special Advisor of the United Nations Secretary-General Kofi Annan on the Millennium Development Goals, addressed the session via video recording, and underscored the importance of the Millennium Development Goals as the best hope for engaging the whole world in the quest to alleviate absolute poverty. He noted the huge cost of achieving the Millennium Development Goals and the urgent need to mobilize resources. He called on rich countries to provide increased financial assistance to poor countries to help in this endeavour, whilst recognizing that this alone would not be sufficient.

45. Subsequently, five panelists presented their experience of the realities, challenges and best practices in financing slum upgrading. Presentations were made by Ms. Jane Weru, Executive Director of Pamoja Trust (Kenya), Mr. Oswar Mungkasa from the Neighbourhood Upgrading and Shelter Sector Project (NUSSP, Indonesia), Mr. Per Ljung, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of PM Global, Ms. Pamela Lamoreaux, Manager, International Finance Corporation, and Mr. P.M. M’baye, Managing Director of Shelter Afrique. The presentations covered urban poor funds managed by grassroots and non-governmental organization sectors, national housing and neighbourhood improvement programmes, regional public-private initiatives, the role of international financial institutions in supporting private sector initiatives, and the use of loan-guarantee instruments to leverage domestic savings and capital.

46. In the discussion that followed, statements and observations were made by representatives of Greece (on behalf of the European Union and the ten accession States), Mali, Republic of South Korea, Senegal, South Africa and Tunisia, United Kingdom and United States,. The non-governmental organization Homeless International also provided a statement.

47. There was general consensus that security of land tenure is an overarching issue fundamentally affecting financing initiatives. It was also recognized that financing slum upgrading requires an integrated, multi-faceted approach, combining finance mechanisms with capacity building and tenure security with access to affordable shelter, basic services and asset generation. Resources from the domestic public sector certainly have a role to play, and this presents a formidable challenge in many developing countries as well as in countries with economies in transition. The potential of local, individual and community initiatives and resources, as well as contributions from the formal private sector, must also be harnessed. Speakers noted that there was a need to widen the reach of the formal private sector, and to support and scale up informal financing mechanisms. It was acknowledged that innovation of this kind requires a political enabling environment, and effective policy frameworks and legislation, including the political will to remove obstacles that prohibit the urban poor from participating effectively.

48. Many speakers stressed the importance of strengthening municipal level institutional arrangements and increasing the capacity of local governments, facilitating an appropriate environment for investment and for the development of local, sustainable solutions. Others emphasized the need to recognize community mobilization and related efforts to promote the capacity of the urban poor both to mobilize and manage local funds as an investment activity. It was considered that grant financing has a role to play in capacity building.

49. It was agreed that the large sums required for implementing target 11 of the Millennium Development Goals – estimated to be between US$ 50 and 100 billion - could not be met by overseas development assistance alone. It was important to leverage official development assistance such that it strengthens domestic financial mechanisms (both formal and informal), mobilizing domestic savings and capital for the purposes of improving the living and working conditions of the urban poor. There was optimism amongst participants that there is a new impetus to the development of innovative solutions to the financing of slum upgrading.

SUMMARIES OF OPENING STATEMENTS

A. Statement by Mr. Ali-Ketrandji, Chair of the Commission on Human Settlements at its eighteenth session

1. Mr. Ali-Ketrandji welcomed the delegates, noting that the current session was the first since UN-HABITAT had been upgraded to a programme of the United Nations General Assembly. Its new status, he said, was a clear recognition of UN-HABITAT and its governing body as the focal points within the United Nations system for the implementation of the Habitat Agenda. He paid tribute to the Executive Director, Mrs. Tibaijuka, who had made a tremendous difference in the fortunes of UN-HABITAT, and to all of the members of the Committee of Permanent Representatives, whose Governments had fully supported UN-HABITAT at the United Nations General Assembly when the critical decisions concerning the future of UN-HABITAT were being taken.

B. Statement by Mr. Klaus Töpfer, Executive Director of the United Nations Environment Programme

2. In his opening address, the Executive Director of the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), Mr. Klaus Töpfer, emphasized the close connection between UNEP and UN-HABITAT. The only two United Nations agencies headquartered in a developing country were also linked by the close relationship between urban and environment issues as mirrored in the Millennium Development Goals. He noted that the elevation of UN-HABITAT to full programme status was the conclusion of a successful revitalization process initiated by the General Assembly in their resolution 53/242.

3. He noted that the world's urban population was at present reaching three billion, two billion of whom were in developing countries. The world urban population was expected to double in the next 30 to 35 years when four out of five urban residents would be living in developing country megacities. He underlined the need for UNEP to consider and involve the urban dimension when addressing regional and environmental issues directly linked to the fight against poverty, noting that there were many opportunities for cooperation between UNEP and UN-HABITAT.

4. In the wake of the World Summit on Sustainable Development, the emphasis was on implementation and the cooperation of key players to act in addressing pressing issues. The importance of human settlements had been promoted by UN-HABITAT and UNEP at the World Summit on Sustainable Development and many of the partnership projects that came out of the Summit had a strong urban component.

5. Mr. Töpfer informed representatives that UNEP was preparing a publication on the link between urbanization and the environment which would provide data in the form of tables and figures on the role of cities in environmental issues, building on the urban environment chapter of UNEP's Global Environment Outlook report.

6. The last meeting of UNEP's Governing Council, which had taken place three months previously, in Nairobi, had produced a very challenging programme of work with many activities directly or indirectly linked to the urban environment. He expressed UNEP's eagerness to participate in the two main themes of the present meeting and to cooperate fully with UN-HABITAT on these issues. He announced that UNEP had joined the Cities Alliance and looked forward to working closely with UN-HABITAT and other partners.

7. He noted, in conclusion, that UNEP and UN-HABITAT had prepared a joint progress report for the present session of the Governing Council of UN-HABITAT and the recent session of the Governing Council of UNEP, which highlighted their cooperation over recent years, including in the context of the Sustainable Cities Programme.

C. Statement by Mrs. Anna Kajumulo Tibaijuka, Executive Director of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme

8. In her opening statement, after welcoming the delegates to the first meeting of the Governing Council of the newly elevated United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT), the Executive Director drew attention to the new status of UN-HABITAT as a fully-fledged programme of the United Nations which she described as a milestone and a clear signal from the international community that sustainable urban development, adequate shelter and the plight of the world's urban poor were irrevocable priorities on the world's development agenda. She noted, in this regard, that shelter and slums had been placed alongside the original five priorities of water and sanitation, energy, health, agriculture and biodiversity (WEHAB) at the World Summit on Sustainable Development held in Johannesburg in 2002.

9. She also highlighted the Millennium Declaration, noting that it embraced a shared set of measurable goals and targets and that the achievement of those goals and targets represented humanity's greatest potential to rid the world of poverty. Of most direct relevance to UN-HABITAT was goal 7, target 11: to achieve a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum dwellers, by 2020.

10. The Executive Director pointed out that as the most visible manifestation of urban poverty, slums were where the city's problems all came together. Disease, including HIV/AIDS, illiteracy, vulnerability and insecurity – especially of women and children – lack of adequate shelter, unemployment, pollution and a shortage of resources to resolve these issues all defined the slum. In curing the city of these manifold problems by upgrading the slum environment, the lives of slum dwellers would certainly be improved. The UN-HABITAT work programmes for the bienniums 2002-2003 and 2004-2005 clearly expressed this orientation.

11. It was essential, she said, not only to consider symptoms of poverty in the slums themselves, but also to restructure the economic, social and political vectors that nourish and transmit inequity and poverty. In the context of the United Nations system, UN-HABITAT in particular, would have to redouble efforts to develop demonstrable means for directly improving the slum environment and the lives of slum dwellers. The Executive Director stressed the importance of also turning attention to the root causes and carriers of urban poverty, which needed to be dealt with through effective local and regional development planning, as well as strong national pro-poor urban policies that are incorporated into national economic development plans and promoted by global institutions seeking to deliver a balanced territorial development.

12. The Executive Director noted that the UN-HABITAT strategic vision was both forward looking and pragmatic, being consistent with social norms and political principles as well as with UN-HABITAT mandates, capabilities and partners' objectives.

13. The first four elements of the strategic vision found their expression in the subprogrammes of the overall UN-HABITAT Work Programme and in the derivative divisional structure of the UN-HABITAT organization. The fifth element, strategic partnerships, was a sine qua non for the successful implementation of all UN-HABITAT objectives. The Executive Director then very briefly mentioned some of the key partnerships forged thus far, such as: The Cities Alliance; the landmark agreement between UN-HABITAT and UNDP whereby national Habitat Programme Managers are being placed within UNDP country offices as advocates and experts on urban poverty reduction; the recently signed agreements between UN-HABITAT, the Asian Development Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank to collaborate in important spheres of activity; the recent public-private partnership with the leading maker of Geographic Information Systems software, the Environmental Sciences Research Institute; and the Partnership Agreement between UN-HABITAT and the Government of the Netherlands that encourages multi-year donor funding of work on selected themes, strategies and outputs of the UN-HABITAT biennial work programme.

14. She encouraged all delegations in that regard, to review the Partnership Agreement to determine how it might fit into their countries' development assistance frameworks and thanked Member States who had already agreed to give their support through this arrangement. In addition to slum upgrading, UN-HABITAT would have to strengthen its capacities in the areas of urban economic development and of urban regional development as well as its ability to advise on national urban policy and legislative initiatives.

15. For a variety of reasons, many of them political, cities in most developing countries had not been given the tools needed to play the strong role that modern development theory would assign to them. Without sufficient resources and proper capabilities, cities would continue to be perceived as a development problem not as a solution. She therefore urged Member States of the United Nations to become more confident in their own local authorities, expressing that confidence in policy that welcomes national subsidiarity in local matters.

16. The Executive Director pointed out that the United Nations Member States' commitment to decentralization, contained in the Habitat Agenda, implied an obligation to help the United Nations system target its technical cooperation activities to the local level. Although Member States are still the primary clientele for United Nations developmental activities, the need to prepare local authorities for a growing set of responsibilities begged for their support to a Programme that can work directly with local stakeholders, as well as with national governments, to serve as an advocate for both local interests and global norms.

D. Statement by H.E. Michael Wamalwa, Vice-President of Kenya

17. Vice-President Wamalwa bid an especially warm welcome to the delegates, acknowledging that the initial arrangements for the session had been characterized by uncertainty due to concerns over the Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome, and expressed satisfaction that the session had in the end commenced with little disruption. The session was taking place at a time when more than one million people had lost their homes due to flooding in Kenya. This was a tragedy, but the response by the international community had been tremendous, and the pledge of support by the Executive Director of UN-HABITAT was most heartening.

18. He noted that the session was the first to take place after the elevation of UN-HABITAT to a programme of the United Nations, and that the change manifested a resolve by the international community to appropriately situate human settlement matters within the United Nations system. He also congratulated Ms. Tibaijuka on her election to the position of Executive Director, assuring her of Kenya's unwavering support for her efforts.

19. The Vice-President observed that since the last session, human settlements in developing countries had continued to suffer numerous calamities, including HIV/AIDS, poverty and, especially, civil conflict. As recognized in the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium, which called for international conflict resolution efforts, peace was a prerequisite to sustainable development. HIV/AIDS too was a major challenge, and was fast eroding the gains being made towards achieving the goals of the Habitat Agenda. The role of the international community in providing technical support and capacity-building to overcome the scourge could not be over-emphasized.

20. He said that the poor generally and slum-dwellers in particular sorely needed safe drinking water and basic sanitation, as recognized by the World Summit on Sustainable Development. The launching by UN-HABITAT of a Water and Sanitation Trust Fund in support of the Water for African Cities Programme was therefore to be welcomed. Kenya was committed to solving the problems of slums and informal settlements, and had signed a memorandum of understanding with UN-HABITAT to implement the Kenya Slum Upgrading Programme, a collaborative initiative that had started in the Kibera Soweto informal settlement in Nairobi which, it was hoped, would be replicated in other cities throughout the country.

21. The Vice-President said that since sustainable human settlement was key to environmental sustainability, it was crucial for UN-HABITAT to work closely with UNEP in areas such as poverty reduction. Poverty was recognized on the agenda of the current session as a root cause of unsustainable patterns, and so he urged delegates and other stakeholders to vigorously discuss wealth creation and enhancement of economic growth. UN-HABITAT itself could not operate without adequate financial support, and in that vein, adequate and predictable funding for UN-HABITAT and the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation was required.

E. Statement by Ms. Rosalinda Valenton-Tirona, Chair of the Committee of Permanent Representatives

22. Ms. Rosalinda Valenton-Tirona, Chair of the Committee of Permanent Representatives reported to the Governing Council on the work of the Committee of Permanent Representatives to UN-HABITAT during the intersessional period as requested in operative paragraph 8 of Commission on Human Settlements resolution 18/1 of 16 February 2001.

23. She recalled the establishment of the Committee in 1984, first as an informal body of Permanent Representatives accredited to the then United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat), leading to the establishment of the Committee as an intersessional subsidiary body of the Governing Council at the meeting of the Bureau of the Governing Council on 31 October 2001. The General Assembly, after upgrading the Commission on Human Settlements into the Governing Council of UN-HABITAT in its resolution 56/206 of 21 December 2001, further decided that the Committee of Permanent Representatives to UN-HABITAT would serve as the Governing Council's intersessional body.

24. She submitted the report of the Chair of the Committee of Permanent Representatives to UN-HABITAT on the work of the Committee during the period between the eighteenth and the nineteenth sessions of the Governing Council, as contained in document HSP/GC/19/3.

25. She noted that the Committee had conducted a total of 14 meetings with the Executive Director during the intersessional period. The Committee had reviewed and monitored the implementation of the UN-HABITAT work programme and the implementation of the decisions and resolutions of the Commission on Human Settlements at its eighteenth session. In addition, and in accordance with its terms of reference, the Committee had prepared 12 draft resolutions on key issues which were on the agenda of the nineteenth session of the Governing Council, as contained in document HSP/GC/19/3/Add.1.

26. The Committee had also prepared a draft text of the new rules of procedure of the Governing Council of UN-HABITAT and two related draft resolutions which had been transmitted to the Governing Council for further consideration and appropriate action, and were contained in the third report of the Committee (HSP/GC/19/3/Add.2).

27. On behalf of the Bureau and the Committee of Permanent Representatives, she expressed her gratitude to the Executive Director and her staff for their full cooperation and assistance which had enabled the Committee to discharge its function. She also thanked the members of the Committee of Permanent Representatives for their valuable contributions and hard work.

Annex VI

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS, MR. KOFI ANNAN, TO THE GOVERNING COUNCIL OF THE UNITED NATIONS HUMAN SETTLEMENTS
PROGRAMME (UN-HABITAT) AT ITS NINETEENTH SESSION

1. It gives me great pleasure to send my greetings to this nineteenth session, which is also the first meeting of the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme. I would like to express particular gratitude to President Kibaki, and to the Government and people of Kenya, for hosting UN-HABITAT in Nairobi since 1978. That support is just one measure of Kenya's enduring commitment to the United Nations.
2. The decision by Member States to upgrade the Centre to a full Programme indicates the seriousness with which the international community regards the problems caused by rapid urbanization. Indeed, such concerns and challenges – including the need to improve the lives of at least 100 million slum dwellers by 2020 – are at the heart of the Millennium Development Goals and other commitments made by world leaders, including at the World Summit on Sustainable Development.
3. Your role, as a newly transformed Governing Council, is to help the international community meet these targets. Your session offers an opportunity for progress in several critical areas. Good governance, for example, is a crucial factor in securing financing to improve conditions in slums and to provide safer water and sanitation services. Partnerships with local authorities and community groups will also be necessary to mobilize political and practical support and, not least, to ensure that projects and policies accurately reflect local needs and aspirations. And sustainable urban development will be incomplete unless it addresses the rural dimension. Therefore I urge you to consider a holistic approach, to take into account the economic and environmental concerns of neighbouring rural communities, and to encourage decentralization as a way of reducing the divide between rural and urban areas.
4. In the past, under guidance from its governing body, UN-HABITAT has been at the forefront of helping governments manage the complex problems of urbanization, including successful post-conflict rehabilitation and the reconstruction of urban areas. The international community continues to look to you to create a strategic vision that will help implement the Habitat Agenda and guide our collective efforts to build peaceful, prosperous cities and other human settlements. I wish you every success in your deliberations.
